LONDON GOSSIP.

Revolt Against "Jockey Worship" Spreading.

Lord Kitchener Overwhelmed with Social Invitations.

[Copyright, 1898, by the Associated Press.]

LONDON, Oct. 29.—Influenza has made its re-appearance here early this season. Fifteen deaths in London are officially attributed to influenza and there are some apprehensions that it will assume epidemic form.

The racing at Newmarket was again the occasion for big society gatherings. There was a record attendance at the Cambridgeshire, where lots of money was dropped on the Prince of Wales's Minoru, which was left at the post with Tod Sloan in the saddle.

The racing fever of the last few weeks called forth protests from various quarters. Mr. Henry Labouchere, in Truth, referring to Tod Sloan, denounces "the nauseous jockey worship, which was such a discreditable and idiotic feature of the turf twenty years ago."

Lord Russell of Killowen, lord chief justice of England, in a speech has also decried this mania saying: "They worship this god to such an extent that if Tod Sloan, supposing his nationality did not stand in the way, were to become a candidate for Epsom it is doubtful if the present member would have a chance.

According to advices received from the court of Copenhagen, where King George of Greece is staying after attending the funeral of the Queen of Denmark, it is believed there that he will abdicate next spring in favor of Crown Prince Constantine. Duke of Sparta, and will return to Denmark and settle there permanently.

The birth of a son to Prince Emanuele, Duke of Aosta, eldest nephew of the King of Italy, was a very important event for the house of Savoy, as unless a change of circumstances occurs he will sit on the throne of Italy.

An interesting announcement in connection with papal finance has been made by a well-informed newspaper of Rome, which says the Vatican authorities have decided to invest the Peter's Pence fund in a large sugar manufactory, and it is added that there are some misgivings in Catholic circles as to the wisdom of the Vatican again embarking in a speculative undertaking, seeing that the last venture resulted in the loss of several million lire.

General Lord Kitchener has been overwhelmed with social invitations since his return to England, but he is disposed to take a rest. He has been asked by two English publishing firms to write a book, and an American agent has been trying to get him to consent to a lecturing tour in the United States. But the commander of the Anglo-Egyptian forces has declined all these propositions.

The statement that General Kitchener served in the French army during the war of 1870-71 was confirmed this week by an interview with his step-mother, at Dinan. She said he had just received his commission in the British army and went to France on a holiday visit to his father, who had settled at Dinan. Young Kitchener, in spite of the opposition of his father, who feared he would lose his British commission, joined the Dinan Mobiles and set out against the Germans. At Laval he ascended in a balloon to reconnoitre the enemy's position and had a severe attack of pleurisy, which compelled him to return to Dinan and cut short his career in the French army.

Lady Henry Somerset, who is living quietly at Eastnor Castle, is occupied in modelling a statue of the late Miss Frances E. Willard.

The talk of military circles, next to discussing the prospect of war with France, has been an extraordinary affair at the Hythe school of musketry, resulting in the severe punishment of 17 out of the 86 officers there. It appears that one of the officers incurred detestation by offensive boasting at the expense of a certain lady. A number of the other officers at first played a trick upon him as a warning, and he complained to the commandant, who reprimanded the culprits. The brother officers of the objectionable officer thereupon determined to give him severe chastisement. They went to his room, destroyed all his uniforms and then, after having stripped him, inflicted corporal punishment. Several of the officers who took part in the affair have been dismissed from the school and others have been punished in various manners.

The French papers declare that Emperor William made the following utterance during his visit to Constantinople: "The French are an extraordinary people. When you see them separately they are charming, but in a mass they are unbearable. They refuse to understand us. If we two were alone we should rule the world. Never mind, I shall end by forcing my friendship on them."

The sad circumstances of the death of Harold Frederic, London correspondent of the New York Times, have directed considerable attention upon the kindred scientists and especially upon the kindred sect known as the "Peculiar People." The number of deaths of children among the latter has become unpleasantly large. This week a coroner's jury found a member of this sect guilty of the manslaughter of his son, eight months old. A physician testified that the child's life could have been saved by an ordinary doctor, and it was shown that its parents had lost seven out of their twelve children. Inquests were held on three of them.

Sir Henry Irving's illness is more serious than was at first reported. He has already been confined to his bed at Glasgow for a fortnight.

COLONEL WARING

Falls a Victim of the Dread Yellow Fever.

Long a Citizen of Newport, Deeply Interested in Her Welfare.

Colonel George E. Waring, Jr., died at 7:45 o'clock this morning of yellow fever. His death occurred at his home at 176 Second avenue, New York, where he had been since he arrived from Havana on the Yucatan Tuesday last.

Dr. Blauvelt, who had been attending Colonel Waring during his illness, was summoned to the house at 1 o'clock this morning. He found that Colonel Waring had been attacked with the black vomit, and this symptom continued all the morning, without cessation, until his death.

President Murphy of the board of health was informed of the death of Colonel Waring, and Dr. Roberts, the sanitary superintendent, was ordered to have the body placed in a hermetically sealed casket immediately. Colonel Murphy said that extraordinary precautions would be taken to prevent the spread of the disease.

COLONEL GEORGE E. WARING, JR.

Colonel Waring had been sent to the city of Havana as a special commissioner of this government to ascertain the exact sanitary condition of that city and to form ideas for the best method for putting the place in first-class sanitary shape. He was to report to the President, and when he arrived in New York he expected to go to Washington the next day. He had a great deal of information which he thought would be of service to the President. The plan of the commission was to place the city of Havana and the coast towns of Cuba in such a good sanitary condition that the recurrence of yellow fever and its entrance into the Gulf cities of the United States would be prevented.

Colonel Waring said he did not feel well, but it was not thought to be more than an ordinary illness, as he was apparently well when he left Havana, and he felt only slightly ill during the latter part of the voyage. He was able to move about with slight inconvenience until he reached his home, when he was immediately put to bed. That the disease had not developed at the time he left the steamer was shown by his having been examined and passed by the quarantine officers.

Colonel Waring was immediately isolated in his apartments on the ninth floor of the apartment house in which he lived. There are nine families in the house, but none of them left, and no member of any family left the house.

Dr. Daniel M. Stimson was called in as soon as Colonel Waring reached home. He saw that the case was suspicious, and reported it to the board of health. Dr. Alcazo Blauvelt, of the department of contagious diseases, and Dr. White, of the marine hospital, two experts, were called in. They said the patient undoubtedly had yellow fever.

Precautions were immediately taken to prevent the spread of the disease. No one but the physicians and Mrs. Waring, who is an immune, were allowed to see Colonel Waring. Everything that was taken out of the apartment was disinfected. Inspectors of the board of health were stationed at the entrance to the house, at the inside door, and on the floor the sick man was on, to prevent people from going near him.

The doctors at first did not think the case was a malignant one. When Colonel Waring's temperature rose to 105¼, however, the physicians became alarmed, and the case was considered in its most serious form, and Colonel Waring was treated accordingly. It was plain that he was getting worse. The black vomit, the most serious symptom, was fought off until 1 o'clock this morning.

Three hours after the death of Colonel Waring his body, inclosed in a metallic casket, was conveyed to the dock at the foot of Fifteenth street, and taken to Swinburne Island. It was there placed in a retort and Dr. Doty himself lighted the fire which cremated the remains. As soon as the body had been removed from the house the apartments of the Warings were fumigated and disinfected.

George E. Waring, Jr., was born in Poundstone, N. Y., July 4, 1833. He

EDUCATION THE GREAT NEED.

Dawes Indian Commission Urges It Upon the Government.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—The annual report of the Dawes Indian commission, bringing the work of that body in reorganizing the Indian Territory up to early this week, was made public today. It urges as the main call for government aid, "fraught with disastrous consequences if delayed," the need of some provision by the national government for educational purposes in the territory. While the funds and resources of the several tribes, properly managed, can probably supply sufficient support for the schools of the citizen Indians, yet the white residents cannot share in them and must look elsewhere for the means of educating their children. The means resorted to in all other territories, and out of which ample school funds have been provided, do not exist in the Indian Territory, in which the United States has not an acre of public land or other property beyond that in public uses. If the white residents are to receive any aid from the United States, it must be from the outside by direct appropriation. If they are left without any such aid it will be a harsher treatment than has been meted out to the residents of any other territory and will be attended with the most disastrous consequences. There are believed to be between 250,000 and 300,000 white residents in the territory today, and well-nigh 30,000 of them are children of school age, who are in danger of growing up in ignorance. The evils that will come of the indifference to this situation cannot be measured.

Summing up the results of the years work, the commission says: "The Indian laws in force in the territory and the Indian courts which administered them have given place, with a few unimportant exceptions, to laws corresponding to those of Arkansas on the same subject matter, and have been made applicable to all persons in the territory, without distinction of race. United States courts are to administer and United States officers to enforce those laws. Provision has been made for the allotment of all the tribal lands of the territory equally among all its citizens, attained as to nearly all of them upon terms agreed to by the tribes, by popular vote. If the agreement with the Creeks be ratified, as is expected, this will be true of all except the Cherokees, and as to them it has been provided by statute. By the agreements and the Curtis act the many thousands of white residents in the town unable heretofore to obtain title to the land on which they have built their homes, and sometimes expensive business houses, can now purchase at a fair appraisal these lands. Whatever rights, civil or political, are enjoyed by the citizens resident in any territory of the United States, the same rights are now secured to the citizen Indian, and largely to the white resident also, in Indian Territory."

The report refers to the difficulty of making up a citizenship roll of all the red men claiming rights under the treaties of 1866 with the respective tribes, and of all their descendants born since the date of these tribes. Neither the Choctaws nor Chickasaws have ever kept a roll of those made by that nation, nor any trace of them since emancipation, the tribes persistently ignoring them.

DREYFUS WINS.

Supplementary Inquiry to be Made Into His Case.

Court, However, Declines to Order His Release.

PARIS, Oct. 29.—At the opening of the court of cassation today M. Mornard resumed his argument in behalf of the Dreyfus family, insisting that the bordereau was not in the handwriting of Dreyfus, or an imitation by him of the handwriting of Major Esterhazy. The latter hypothesis, the counsel continued, was absolutely improbable. If it was an imitation, the author of it must be a third party. If it was no imitation, the author of the bordereau could be only Major Esterhazy himself.

M. Mornard pointed out that the honor of the army was not involved in the doings of court-martial, as, like other courts, they could err without their honor suffering.

After M. Mornard had closed his argument, the court retired to deliberate.

The court has decided to grant a revision of the case and will institute a supplementary inquiry. The court, however, has declined to order the release of Dreyfus.

M. Yves Guyot, in the Siecle today, asserts that the secret documents in the Dreyfus case were burned some days ago.

This Morning's News.

ALL MUST BE KEPT.

President Sees No Alternative in the Philippines.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—President McKinley is convinced that there is no way in which the United States can escape the responsibility of ruling all the Philippines. He has arrived at this conclusion after mature deliberation. He at first favored keeping nothing more than a military and naval base, and thought that the United States should in no event retain more than the island of Luzon.

When the American peace commissioners left for Paris it was not contemplated that they demand from the Spanish government more than the absolute cession of this one island to the United States, and a reversionary interest in the other islands of the group.

It has been found, however, that there were many practical difficulties in the way of such a solution, not the least of them being the evident impossibility of Spain re-establishing authority over the remaining islands without a prolonged and a bloody struggle with the insurgent forces.

Information, coupled with the opinion of military and naval commanders familiar with the Philippine situation, have led the President to believe that Admiral Dewey's destruction of the Spanish fleet in Manila bay and General Merritt's capture of Manila annihilated Spanish sovereignty in the islands, and it became a duty of the United States to establish a better government than the one which was destroyed by American arms.

The President has been deluged with letters from all parts of the United States, and with resolutions from commercial and religious bodies, urging that American sovereignty should be maintained wherever the flag has been planted. In this same line, the President's recent western trip was a revelation to him and the members of his cabinet who accompanied him. The further he went West, the stronger he found the sentiment in favor of holding all the Philippines, and establishing an American government over them.

TARRIFF RATES IN CUBA.

Proposed Revision Which Will Benefit Americans.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—A complete revision of the United States tariff in Cuba will soon be promulgated, which will give great advantages to American exporters without departing from the rule adopted by President McKinley that the rates shall be uniform upon imports from all countries.

The discrimination in favor of the United States, so far as it can be treated as such, will be made by putting low duties upon those articles in which American exporters are able to meet those of other countries upon favorable terms. The Cubans already import nearly all their food products from the United States and nearly $30,000,000 of such products have annually reached them. The average rate upon cereals, canned goods and meats will be 25 per cent or less, and cattle will be free of duty. The rates will be levied by the pound, or the head, in most cases, rather than by the ad valorem system, but care will be taken to keep them down to a moderate ad valorem average.

Hon. Robert P. Porter, formerly superintendent of the census, who has been acting as special commissioner upon the economic and financial end of Cuba, is now engaged in preparing a more equitable tariff. The rates will be so adjusted that American manufactured goods will find easy entry into Cuba. Agricultural machinery will be admitted free and locomotives, sewing machines, building tools and other manufactures of iron and steel will enter at twenty or twenty-five per cent.

The rates imposed by the United States upon imports in Cuba will be the same on the products of the United States as the products of other countries, but a judicious distribution of low duties upon articles which are largely produced in the United States will give a practical advantage to American exporters.

It is not unlikely that the new Cuban tariff will be applied also to Porto Rico as soon as it can be determined whether it is aplicable without material changes to the fiscal interests of that island.

TO BUILD THE NICARAQUA CANAL.

Administration to Urge Its Continuation by Government Aid.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—It is the administration's intention to urge the construction of the Nicaraguan canal by government aid, in accordance with the concession of the Maritime Canal Company. This statement was made today by an administration official, apropos of the report that Edwin F. Cragin of Chicago and Edward Eyre and F. S. Washburn of New York had entered into an agreement with President Zelaya to construct an interoceanic canal.

Officially, the State Department has no information showing that President Zelaya has granted the concession mentioned to build the canal after the lapse, next October, of the concession of the Maritime Canal Company. Private advices received here, however, show that the report is true.

MARCHAND AT KARTOUM.

His Departure Does Not Settle Possession of Fashoda.

PARIS, Oct. 28.—The French foreign office has received a despatch from its diplomatic agency at Cairo confirming the reported arrival of Major Marchand at Khartoum. Major Marchand left Fashoda Sunday, and arrived at Khartoum this morning. He will start for Cairo tomorrow.

As the other Frenchmen remain at Fashoda, Major Marchand's departure from there is not regarded as a settlement of the question as to the possession of that place. The major deemed it necessary to bring personally to Cairo the unfinished portion of his report of his explorations. Captain Germain was left in command of the French mission at Fashoda.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—The Evening Sun has the following cable from London:

A despatch to the Central News from Paris says that President Faure has authorized the statement that no settlement has been reached between England and France in regard to Fashoda.

A despatch from Paris to a local news agency says: "A telegram from Toulon states that all the boats attached to the active fleet and coast defense flotilla came into the harbor last evening. They will exchange their practice torpedoes for service projectiles today."

NEXT PRUSSIAN DIET.

Balance of Parties will be Only Slightly Affected.

BERLIN, Oct. 28.—The returns in the election now in progress for secondary electors continue to come in slowly, but enough have been received to indicate that the balance of parties in the next Prussian diet will be but slightly affected. The Radicals will gain perhaps a dozen seats, won largely from the Liberals. Although numerically the changes are unimportant, this is significant because it renders it impossible for the Rightists to command a majority, while the Radicals will have vastly more power than in the old House.

Herr Eugene Richter, the Radical leader, is returned for both Berlin and Hagen, but will probably sit for Hagen. The Centrist party is practically unchanged.

COMMODORE MORGAN'S GIFT.

Commodore J. Pierpont Morgan of the New York Yacht Club purchased yesterday the plot which Thursday night he presented to the club as a site for its new home. The property is numbered 37, 39 and 41 West Forty-fourth street, and the price paid is $145,000.

Opposite the site just purchased is the magnificent new home of the Bar Association, with the Royalton apartment hotel adjoining. The Harvard Club and the Berkeley Lyceum are between the yacht club's site and Fifth avenue, while to the east are the Racquet and Tennis Club, the Academy of Medicine and the Century Club. At Fifth avenue and Forty-fourth street are Delmonico's and Sherry's.

The new clubhouse will cost about $200,000.

HATS OFF IN CHURCH.

The latest hats-off movement comes from Cincinnati, Ohio, where it has been introduced into one of the churches. Many of the newspapers of the country have commented editorially upon the innovation, and, almost without exception, favorably. There is scarcely a doubt that almost all of these comments, however, have been made with the writers' mind's-eye turned more toward the theatre than toward the church. Their remarks proved this. They spoke of woman's added attractiveness when without a hat, of her desire to keep watch of the speaker, and of a religious service not being a place for bobbing restlessly about in an attempt to see.

To begin with, the appeal to feminine vanity was not exactly the happiest notion in reference to a church service. As for the desirability of "keeping watch" of the minister without distracting moving around, that is unquestioned. But very few of our preachers are so athletically inclined that we cannot keep them in sight without any exceeding great effort. A minister delivering an address from a comparatively small platform is not to be compared with a company of players ranging over a large stage. It cannot be denied that there are preachers who make the most of their platform area, and they are often the men we most keenly desire to "keep watch of." Still, they are exceptions. As for the idea of women taking off their hats in church, there is no fault to be found with that, and there is much to be said in its favor. Before it is universally adopted, however, let us hope that the problem of ventilation in churches may be nearer solution than it seems to be now.—[Harper's Bazar.

THE Y. M. C. A. AND THE ARMY.

The very best thing about our soldiers in the recent war has been the fact that they have shown the plucky, high-spirited, independent qualities that characterize our young American manhood. Now that it is certain that we must maintain a larger army than before the war, it ought to be resolved by the people of the United States that army service shall be rendered as free as possible from demoralizing tendencies. While our enlisted young men gain the discipline of the trained soldier, they ought to lose none of the high sentiments and ideals that they brought with them from their homes. Our regulars who fought so well for us at Santiago have deserved better of the country in the past than they have received. They have, in fact, been a good deal neglected. Henceforth the good people of the country should see that the troops, whether regulars or volunteers, are well supplied with reading matter and are encouraged in every way possible to maintain their self-respect. The soldiers will value themselves more highly and conduct themselves with more self-restraint when they understand that the people of the country value them, are proud of them, and are disposed to treat them with due consideration.

The war of 1898 has not been one of great bloodshed, but it leaves us under the necessity of regularly maintaining a relatively large fighting force. In this period of peace we shall be readily able to dispense with the services of the Red Cross Society, relief associations and various agencies for the alleviation of physical suffering. But we shall need more than ever to maintain the army and navy work of the Young Men's Christian Association for the sake of its moral, social and educational influence in the army and also as the most effective sort of a volunteer agency which should keep the churches and the community in closer touch with the army. It is certainly desirable that large bodies of soldiers sent to the remote camps should be attended by at least one agency or organization that is voluntary in its nature and represents civil life in order that the life and ways of the army may not become too remote from those of the people at home, and also that the common soldier, who would otherwise be absolutely at the mercy of his commissioned superiors, should have an outside and disinterested witness ready at hand, as to his treatment and general condition. The presence of such an organization as the Young Men's Christian Association does not subvert military discipline, and it must certainly tend to diminish at all points the abuses and the evils of army life.—[Albert Shaw, in American Monthly Review of Reviews.

CAPTAIN SIGSBEE'S DOG.

You have heard of "Peggie," the pug dog on battleship Maine when she was blown up. Peggie is now at Key West. She is a pretty little dog. She was a tiny puppy when first given to the captain of the Maine, a little more than a year ago, and was very full of fun and mischief. She always slept in the cabin, and amused herself by "worrying" any shoes she found, and dragging about anything she could, as most puppies do. She always followed the captain everywhere, no matter how many steps and ladders were to be climbed. This caused her to break her leg, one day; the leg was put in splints, but Peggie could not keep still enough to have it knit properly, so when she was well this leg was a little shorter than the others.

Peggie was very fond of rushing at the waste-paper basket and dragging out the contents. She would whine and cry in a very funny way when she could not get them out. She regarded with great suspicion any one in civilian dress coming on board the Maine, and barked at all who were not in uniform. She could turn a somersault if you held her head down a second.

One day she came into the cabin with a chicken-bone sticking out of one side of her mouth, and a pretty nasturtium blossom in the other. She looked so cute that I wish I had the picture to show you. One ear stuck up and the other lay down, giving her a very comical expression. She knew just what she wanted to do. Laying the flower carefully down in one corner, she took the bone into another and proceeded to eat it. After the bone had been disposed of she took the flower in her mouth again, and finally left it at the captain's feet.

Once she was taken driving at Key West, and while the carriage was in motion she jumped out of the vehicle on one side and into it at the other, until the person she was with feared she would break all her legs. Afterward she thought the horses' tails were meant especially for her to play with, so over the dashboard to bite the tails, and down under the horses' feet she went. But she was not hurt, and soon sprang into the carriage again.—[Mrs. Charles D. Sigsbee, in St. Nicholas.

NAVAL NOTES.

It is stated that cruiser Brooklyn will sail for Manila, by way of the Suez canal, Monday or Tuesday, with recruits, ammunition and supplies for Admiral Dewey's fleet. On her way she will coal at Colombo, Ceylon.

Captain A. S. Crowninshield, Acting Secretary of the Navy, gave instructions yesterday to Commander West, commanding gunboat Princeton, directing him to proceed with his vessel to San Juan, Porto Rico, and take station there until relieved.

Cruiser Newark will remain at San Juan until the arrival of the Solace with Commander A. S. Snow, and when Commander Snow assumes duty as commandant of the station Rear Admiral Schley will board the Newark and sail for home.

Passed Assistant Engineer D. E. Dismukes is ordered to the Texas October 30.

Assistant Engineer R. K. Crank is detached from the Texas and ordered to the navy yard, New York.

Chief Engineer I. S. K. Reeves is detached from the Montgomery and ordered to the Puritan.

Gunner P. Hanley is ordered to be retired October 26.

Passed Assistant Engineer F. C. Bowers is detached from the navy yard, New York, and ordered to the office of the fish commission.

Acting Boatswain William Brooks is detached from the Minneapolis and ordered to the Indiana.

Lieutenant W. S. Hughes's sick leave is extended to December 1.

Captain F. W. Dickins will submit to Captain Crowninshield his report on his inspection of Goat Island, on the Pacific coast, where a training station is to be established. He will report that the island is admirably situated for the purpose, is healthy, and that fresh water can be supplied on plans which he will submit. Congress has appropriated $50,000 to begin the work of constructing the buildings, which will accommodate 300 boys, and another appropriation of $50,000 will be made during the coming session.

Two more men-of-war will probably follow auxiliary cruiser Buffalo to the Asiatic squadron. Orders have already been given to gunboat Helena to prepare for her long trip through the Suez canal to the far East, and as soon as she is ready she will join Rear Admiral Dewey. He has impressed upon the department the necessity of having a large number of light draught gunboats among the Philippine islands. The Yorktown, it is understood, will soon be placed in commission in the Pacific coast and will start for Manila. In addition to these gunboats, it will be necessary for the department within the next few months to send an auxiliary cruiser, carrying another draft of men to take the places of those on the Asiatic station whose terms of enlistment have expired.

It Kills Disease.

Radam's Microbe Killer will stay the ravages of Consumption, stop the pains of Rheumatism, allay the itching of Eczema, preventing the wasting in Bright's Disease, neutralize the gnawings of Dyspepsia, sweeten the foulest stomach and bring back a normal appetite to the suffering patient. These above are only a few of the many germ diseases; this remedy surely conquers these, and health is again restored.

Radam's Microbe Killer

is an antiseptic, contains no injurious drugs, destroys all bacteria, and is healthful in the highest degree. No decay or fermentation can develop where the Microbe Killer is present. Every Dyspeptic who ever tried it will speak its praises. It is sold in every large town and city in the land, and thousands once pronounced incurable have regained health and strength by ridding their bodies of all diseased germs.

If you are sick, this remedy should be applied immediately. Don't defer the trial until there is no hope. Write us for free book and advice at once.

SEASONABLE NOTES.

The last blooming for the trumpet vine on the front of Kay Chapel was a glorious farewell to the world. Hundreds went out of the way to see it this August, and truly it was an amazing sight, the whole facade of the building hung with the great vine covered with thousands of lawny scarlet trumpet bells. The low, ivy-covered walls of the chapel have for long years, in winter and summer, made the corner of High and Church streets an attractive bit of Newport. Today in their grim bareness they are a sorry sight to those who have taken pleasure in the sheets of glossy green that have veiled the ugly brick for a score and more of years.

With the removal of these vines the older generations feel again the loss of Trinity's much-loved pastor, who planted and nurtured the ivies of Kay Chapel. As long as he lived to care for it the building was a joy to see. There was no finer growth of ivy in the city, and the sod about it was kept in exquisite order. Kay Chapel was a sermon in itself. Its text might have been "Little children, love one another"—it was so redolent of kindly thought for every one who passed it. Dr. White could often be seen there himself aiding the little tendrils to find a way about the windows, and directing the training of the long branches of the well-grown ivies that were set out. For the last years the chapel has stood in neglected weedy grounds, where the sod was not replaced after the new building was erected; but Dr. White's ivies have redeemed much that was unworthy of the spot. Now there is not a leaf left. It is a common-place corner. Whatever wisdom there may have been in tearing the vines down, there must be a great feeling of regret at the necessity of the deed.

The new French coins are an honor to the nation that worships detail. The best medal engraver to be had was given the task of designing them, with the result that exquisite specimens of the modeler's art will be common to every man, woman and child in France who handles a bit of silver of nine and a fraction cents' value. The new coins are the fifty-centime piece, the franc and two-franc pieces.

The seeker of gay autumn leaves who looks for them on the trolley line between Fall River and New Bedford will be disappointed. With the exception of some gorgeously red oaks, hue here and there among the pines, there is nothing better than, or even as good in colored foliage, as our own island can show. The woods at Southwick's Grove and on the Wapping road are beautifully tinted now with a subdued richness of color.

Those who go out on the trolley find the views the most beautiful of the year. The fields have the deep green of the aftermath, and the low growths and ivies are red and bronze and yellow. The same colors in paler shades show in the trees, and the ocean and bay are a wonderful blue. The forests seen beyond Little Compton are a soft blending of autumn tints.

From every trip on the trolley lines beyond the island, the traveler comes back with a surer consciousness that for picturesqueness and variety there is nothing in New England like the ride from Newport to Tiverton. The road between Fall River and New Bedford is prettily wooded, and passes through several little settlements of more or less interest, but in general it is tame. The bright, wholesome city of New Bedford, with its wide streets and grand trees and salt water breath and pleasant homes, is a neighbor to know. There are few better ways of spending a pleasant autumn day, than in visiting New Bedford by trolley, leaving Newport at a quarter-past nine or ten in the morning, and getting back between 5 and 6 in the evening, with several hours to devote to the handsome old city of the whalers. There is an air about New Bedford that irresistibly reminds one of the sailor home from the sea, with his wallet full of well-earned gold, and, comfortably clad in gown and slippers, ensconced in an easy chair prepared to take his comfort on land for the rest of his days.

In the Library of Congress in Washington is a pavilion for the blind. It contains a library of books in raised letters. Someone had the bright thought to suggest an occasional hour of reading aloud there, and volunteers for the work were called for, with an idea of having the readings once a week if readers could be found. It speaks well for the spirit of the city when it is known that volunteers reported in such numbers that daily readings were established and kept up from November 9 to July, last season, and have been resumed this October. There is no difficulty about getting the readers, and the waiting list is sometimes so long that the dates are filled for two months ahead. This arrangement of having a special room and library of books for the blind has been adopted in most of the large libraries of the country, and it is hoped that the readings will be copied also.

Croquet will not down, and the click of the balls is heard every summer, more or less, but it has been the fashion to regard it as a children's game, and the grown-up player always handles the mallet with a condescending and once-in-a-while air. But all that is to be changed, we are told, the coming summer. New croquet sets are already in the field abroad. They have the usual number of hoops, but only six are set up for the modern game. The hoops are just wide enough to allow the ball to pass through if it is in the best vantage point. This is where the skill largely comes in. The latest croquet sets used in this country have had heavy mallets, with short handles, so that they had to be carried in the interims of play, and a serious objection to the game has been the weight. The new mallets are as heavy, but have the long, light handle of the old style, and form a support instead of being a burden to the player.

Work on cruiser Chicago is advancing rapidly at the New York navy yard, and it is believed that she will be ready next week to go into commission.

FRENCH GOWN OF WOOL BENGALINE FROM HARPER'S BAZAR

FRENCH GOWN OF WOOL BENGALINE.

Wool bengaline, a material which falls in graceful folds, forms an attractive circular skirt, with no fullness about the hips and an especially pretty flare around the bottom, where it measures about four yards, and spreads out behind in Pantike plaits. A plain but becoming effect in trimming consists of double folded bands of the material, two or three in a cluster, which outline an apron in front, and, reaching higher towards the back, produce a yoke effect behind, where the skirt is fastened by several buttons. Below this opening the material is extended wider for the adjustment of the plaits. In order that the skirt may be adaptable to all figures, the pattern is given with directions for cutting a little fullness at the waist-line in the back.

The blouse of chenille-dotted silk has an adjustable chemisette that forms a vest in front, thus permitting many pretty touches of color. The model is tucked and finished with high collar, ornamented with a cravat, tied in a square bow at the side. Over the shoulders is a deep collar bordered similarly to the opening of the fronts, that have clusters of ornamental buttons, which, large and small, are a distinctive feature of simple as well as elegant gowns. The corsage, back and front, may be snugly fitted, or made with a slight fullness at the waist-line, the directions for each mode being furnished in the pattern. The sleeves, which is the latest model for winter shirt-waists, has an easy fullness at the top, and is fitted at the wrist to a circular cuff. The proper cut of this gown, taken from Harper's Bazar, can be obtained only by the use of Harper's Bazar cut-paper patterns.

Quantity of material—For skirt, 3¼ yards 48 inches wide, or 4½ yards of yards 48 inches wide, or 4½ yards of silk.

A DANGEROUS GERM.

The bubonic plague is a bacteriological mystery which medical science has not yet fathomed. In attempting to fathom it and bring the disease within the field of rational therapeutics, the doctors of Vienna have established a centre of infection in that city. The mysterious germ is at work. Its victims are as yet few, but they are increasing in number. The disquieting feature of the matter is that the doctors seem to have no control over it, either to cure patients or to prevent the spread of the infection. Science has let loose a demon it does not know how to manage.

Two facts reported from Vienna are sufficient to show that the nature and habits of the bacillus of the bubonic plague are unknown to the doctors. The undertaker's men who prepared for burial the bodies of those who have died of the disease are required to swathe their hands in antiseptic wrappings. That indicates a fear of infection by contact. But the priest who administered the sacrament to one of the dying patients stood outside a closed window, being forbidden to enter the room. That precaution would be taken in the case of a germ disease of which the infection was communicated through the air. Evidently the doctors have not discovered the channel of infection. They seem to know nothing about the disease, except that it spreads rapidly, is malignant, uncontrollable and terribly fatal.

We are not surprised to hear that Vienna is terrified and almost in a state of panic. The spread of typhoid may be arrested, in spite of the evidence to the contrary afforded by our Algerian experience. The germs of diphtheria, small pox and tuberculosis are more or less manageable. We know them all by sight, and we know how to kill them. They are measurably within the control of science. But this new scourge from the East defies the investigator and kills him at his work. If an expert with the microscope and the culture tubes, knowing perfectly well how dangerous is the work, and taking every precaution, be stricken, how can the lay public hope to escape if the infection spreads? The plague may repeat in Vienna the ravages of Bombay.

Conceivably it may do more and worse. It may ravage Europe as did the old plague that swept off half the population of cities. The chances are much against such a disaster. Probably all germ diseases may be called filth diseases. Infection is favored by unclean habits and warded off by clean living. European cities are cleaner than Bombay, and the chance of an uncontrollable spread of the plague is thereby much diminished. But if the bubonic germ has other vehicles than filth, and exposure should become general, the people of Vienna would have no other defense than their constitutional power to resist infection. The killing and burning of the animals that had been inoculated with the germ for the purpose of producing attenuations, indicates that scientific inquiry into the nature of the disease has been indefinitely postponed. After the experience of Vienna, no city is likely to permit further experimentation.—[New York Times.

PERSONALS.

Colonel W. J. Bryan, who has been ill at his hotel since his arrival at Savannah, Ga., is much improved and received a number of callers yesterday. The corps surgeon says that he has a light form of typhoid fever.

General Kitchener, whose elevation to the peerage has been announced, takes the title of Lord Kitchener of Khartoum and Aspall, in the county of Suffolk. A letter of welcome and congratulation from Queen Victoria in Her Majesty's handwriting was handed to General Kitchener on his arrival at Dover, and twice yesterday he visited the Prince of Wales at Marlborough House, at the latter interview having a long talk with the prince.

Lady Louisa Tighe, who has just completed her ninety-fifth year, is one of the remarkable women of Queen Victoria's long reign. She is a daughter of the Duke of Richmond, who gave the ball at Brussels before the battle of Waterloo. A girl of twelve, she was present as a looker-on only, but she remembers perfectly the spectacle of her elder sister, Lady de Ros, who died some years ago, dancing with the Duke of Wellington before the hasty leave-taking.

Lord Pollington, eldest son of Lord Mexborough, is a self-confessed Buddhist. The Duke of Northumberland and his family, including Lord and Lady Percy, are Irvingites, as are Sir Herbert Maxwell and Lady Frances Balfour, a daughter of the Duke of Argyll. Lord and Lady Radnor are credited with being ardent spiritualists. The late Lady Charlemont was a Jewess, not by birth, but by conviction, and Lord Stanley of Alderly is said to favor the principles of Mohammed.

Dr. Moritz Busch, Bismarck's biographer, was a student of theology at Leipsic when the revolutionary uprising of 1848, in which he took part, led to his flight to America. While in this country he wrote a book on the Mormons, who up to that time had been regarded by the Germans as almost mythical beings. On his return to Germany he was asked by Gustav Freytag to join the staff of the Grenzboten. Toward the close of the seventies he became Bismarck's assistant.

ITCHING RASH

I had an itching rash under my chin, which kept spreading until it was all over my body. I could not sleep but was compelled to lie awake and scratch all the time. My father and two brothers were afflicted with the same thing, at the same time. We all suffered terribly for a year and a half, trying in the meantime all the remedies we could find, but received no benefit. GIVE US MEN.

Give us men!
Men from every rank,
Fresh and free and frank,
Men of thought and reading,
Men of light and leading,
Men of loyal breeding,
Nation's welfare speeding;
Men of faith and not of faction,
Men of forty aim in action,
Give us men—I say again,
Give us men!

Give us men!
Strong and stalwart ones!
Men whom highest hope inspires,
Men whom purest honor fires,
Men who trample self beneath them,
Men who make their country wreath them
As her noble sons,
Worthy of their sires!
Men who never shame their mothers,
Men who never fail their brothers,
True, however false ire others,
Give us men—I say again,
Give us men!

Give us men!
Men who when the tempest gathers,
Grasp the standard of their fathers
In the thickest fight;
Men who strike for homes and altar
(Let the coward cringe and falter);
God defend the right!
True as truth, though lorn and lonely,
Tender—as the brave are only;
Men who tread where saints have trod,
Men for country—right—and God;
Give us men—I say again, again,
Give us men!

WHEN LOVE IS YOUNG.

In summer, when the days are long,
The roses and the lilies talk;
Beneath the trees young lovers walk,
And glad birds coo their wooing song.

In autumn, when the days are brief,
Roses and lilies turn to dust;
Lovers grow old, as all men must,
And birds shun trees that have no leaf.

Then, youth, be glad, in love's brief day!
Pluck life's best blossom while you can—
Time has his will of every man—
From heedless hearts love turns away.
—[Louise Chandler Moulton, in Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 29, 1898.

THE SITUATION IN FRANCE.

The change of ministry in Paris is certainly an inauspicious event, and the situation is so critical as to be alarming. These are times in the affairs of that country when cool heads and steady nerves are called for, and there is slight probability that a new ministry can be formed which will be an improvement over the one that retires. Besides, it is never well to "swap horses in the middle of the stream."

The foreign relations of the French republic are far from being satisfactory, nor have they been at any time since the German war, which resulted so disastrously. The chief trouble just now is with England, culminating with the African incident, and it has been well said that "if the French people want to be reduced to the rank of a second-rate power they will insist on resisting the British demand for the withdrawal of Major Marchand and his followers from the Fashoda district. France would be as badly beaten on the sea in a war with Great Britain as she was on land in her war with Germany. The loss of Alsace-Lorraine and the billion-franc indemnity would be as nothing compared to the loss of practically all her colonies, the destruction of her navy and the payment of a war indemnity."

The French government evidently begins to see things in this light, and is preparing to back down with as much grace as possible. Latest information is to the effect that there will be no further attempt to hold Fashoda, now that it is known that neither Russia nor any other formidable power will pool their issues and make common cause in matters of territorial extension.

But, menacing though the Fashoda business is to France, the greater danger at present is the internal turmoil. France seems evidently on the verge of revolution. Her people are hysterical, her army staff is notoriously corrupt, and foolish pride prevents any action to get rid of the corrupt. The affection for the army, the fear to injure it—in fact the overpowering influence of the military element—make the needed reforms an impossibility. The situation is ready for sensational developments, which any day may bring forth.

The disruption of the French cabinet brings France one step nearer to the revolution toward which the country has been recently tending. M. Brisson had determined upon the revision of the Dreyfus case, in spite of the hostility of the military chiefs to such a step. Apparently the sentiment of the country, at first thoroughly adverse to Dreyfus, had undergone a change, and the justice of granting a new trial had become recognized. General Chanoine, like several predecessors in the office of minister of war, and in common with most of the high army officials, was opposed to the plan, and made the sudden announcement of his resignation because of his disagreement with his chief. The chamber of deputies then showed itself still in sympathy with the army. General Chanoine was immediately placed in the position of a martyr, and demands were made upon the premier to close the campaign of insult against the army. A motion to this effect going against the government, another was made expressing confidence in the ministry, and when that was lost the ministry went out.

This action is expressive of the struggle between the civil and the military powers, and if the latter gains the upper hand a revolution is threatened, which would inevitably be accompanied by bloodshed and the overturn of civic and commercial conditions. The latter may cause a great and disastrous war that might result in the almost total annihilation of French national existence.

ANOTHER SPECK OF WAR.

We seldom hear of Finland and the Finlanders in these days of wars and rumors of wars, but, strangely enough, they are just now coming to the front. The inhabitants of this extreme northern country are said to be, taken by and through, the most progressive, prosperous and enlightened of the millions of inhabitants of the Russian empire, and just now seem about to come prominently to the front by giving the czar considerable trouble.

The Finlanders are great lovers of personal liberty, and if left to themselves are fully competent for self-government. But they are too few in number to be able to cope with neighboring nationalities. It may not be generally known that the czar of Russia is grand duke of Finland, and for long years that the country has been better and more liberally governed than any other Russian possession. The people have been allowed exceptional privileges, which they have in no way abused.

Indeed, in many respects Finland has been an independent state. It has a constitution, based upon a pledge made by Alexander I and renewed by his successors. The legislative function is vested in the czar and Landtag, and without the consent of this body no law can be ordained or repealed, new taxes imposed, or soldiers levied. In accordance, however, with a proposed re-organization of the Russian army, the czar has issued a decree touching the Finnish quota of troops, which ignores the rights of the local parliament in the premises, and which the people regard as threatening serious impairment of their liberties. As a consequence, a dangerous agitation has been precipitated, and it is stated that Sweden is not backward in affording encouragement to the agitators.

Of course in such a controversy Finland is helpless. While it may be well enough for these hardy people to protest, it will not be safe to proceed too far. If driven to the application of force Russia might give the Finlanders a taste of the bitter draught that was administered to Russian Poland. The process of Russianizing Finland by prudent concessions and mild rule, which has worked so successfully, would give place to the brutal method, which, in case of the czar, never fails.

COLONEL GEORGE E. WARING, JR.

It is not a little strange that the man who has probably done more than any other person to restrict the ravages of yellow fever should himself become its victim, and that, too, through far less exposures than those to which he had already been subjected. But the unwelcome news was telegraphed to the country this morning that Colonel George E. Waring, Jr., had died of the disease, though but yesterday it was reported that the physicians had little or no fear of a fatal ending of the attack of which the country had been informed.

The nature of Colonel Waring's mission to Cuba was well understood and appreciated, not only in this country, but throughout Europe. It was in reality a tour of sanitary exploration, and the first notes of his supposed-to-be forthcoming report had been given to the public. He found, as was anticipated, a deplorable condition of affairs in the Cuban capital, such as, in fact, are known to prevail over the whole island, and in a general way he had outlined the work to be accomplished in applying the needed remedies. It was to be a vast undertaking, as outlined, involving an expenditure of millions of dollars; but it was believed that the government was prepared to accept the plan and place its execution in charge of the expert who had made it.

Colonel Waring had returned in impaired health from his brief tour of inspection, and the country was congratulating itself upon having the way opened for the greatest work of sanitary reform of the present century. Perhaps no better authority was to be found in matters of this kind than George E. Waring, Jr. His triumph over the dreaded disease in Memphis was so complete as to have been held up as the model of good work and thorough, throughout the whole country, and it was hoped that what was done for this southwestern town might also be done for Havana and other cities on the newly acquired islands. His great achievements in New York stood equally to his credit.

The sense of loss in the death of Colonel Waring will be more keenly felt in Newport than in most other localities. Here he had resided for a long time, and here he had worked out his plans, and this city was still his business headquarters, though the firm was preparing to remove to the greater city. He never lost his interest in Newport or in the Newport people. In an address delivered before the Business Men's Association, outlining the work which had been accomplished in New York, he showed his love for his old home and his appreciation of the improvements which had been made within the past few years, though these had not been under his personal supervision. There was still some advancement called for, he believed, to make Newport the first city in America from a sanitary standpoint, as he thought it could be and should be; but his faith took in this result as the work of a comparatively brief period in the future.

Colonel Waring was a many-sided man. He was a graceful writer, and some of his books may be classed among the best specimens of pure English to be found in the present day. He was in his earlier life a prolific as well as popular author, covering a broad field—agriculture, sanitation and foreign travel, as well as reminiscences of the war between the states, in which he participated as an officer of rank.

THE CURFEW.

The youthful city of Everett, Mass., has a curfew law in force, and the experiment is said to be thus far very favorable. Similar reports come from various towns in the West, and a committee of the New Haven Congregational Club recently reported that it had investigated the workings of the law in numerous localities, and that the testimony was "distinctly and emphatically favorable."

On general principles we should say such an ordinance is not only undesirable but should be altogether unnecessary. If parents should do their duty toward their children there would be little occasion for city councils and policemen to interfere. But, as we have learned, and more especially from recent observations in Newport, parents do not look out for their children as they should, and under such circumstances it might be well to consider the curfew as applicable to our own city.

The nominations for school committee are now before the public, and it affords us pleasure to say that the men named are such as may be relied upon for good work in this direction. There should be no politics in the public schools, and as there are eight names from whom but four are to be selected, if the citizens vote for the best, regardless of political preferences, we shall be sure to fill the vacancies that are now occurring with able and competent men.

The reports from the peace commission as sent out from Paris are still quite contradictory. It is pretty well established, however, that America assumes no part of the Cuban debt, and that as to the Philippines the demand will be for the surrender of the whole group to our sovereignty. It is now said that President McKinley favors this plan, though that would probably involve a money consideration.

Special attention is called to the communication of Mrs. Wharton in relation to school decorations. A portion of our public school rooms having been artistically ornamented, it is quite desirable that all the others should be treated in the same way. The ladies interested have done the city a good service and should be aided and encouraged in the proposed continuance of the work.

The Republicans in many localities are proceeding on the supposition that Alger is not an issue in the present campaign. In this they will find themselves greatly mistaken, for in many localities the results will be likely to turn on the question of the work of the present Secretary of War.

The Democrats of the Fifth ward having no Republicans to fight, eagerly fall to and fight each other. The contest last evening in the ward caucus was fierce and furious, but not more so than in other years, or more than in the Republican wards preparatory to the coming election.

President McKinley has issued his proclamation for a day of Thanksgiving, and it reads well. If the peace commissioners will hurry up and come to conclusions in advance of the time appointed the country will have occasion for an especial jubilee.

Haverhill, Mass., had a $50,000 fire yesterday and Fall River one involving the destruction of $25,000 worth of property.

CRUISER ALBANY.

The Navy Department is anxious to get protected cruiser Albany into American waters, and an examination is being made to ascertain whether there will be any impropriety in asking the British government to release the vessel. In the rush and excitement of the war the Albany was forgotten in the United States, even by the Navy Department. She was built by the Armstrongs at their shipyards on the Tyne for the Brazilian navy, and was christened the Almirante Abreuall. This government bought her from Brazil before the war with Spain began, and renamed her the Albany.

A sister ship, also under construction for Brazil at the Armstrong yards, and named the Amazonas, was bought by the United States at the same time. She participated in the naval operations off Santiago as the New Orleans. The Navy Department did not want to purchase the Albany because she was not nearly finished, but Brazil would not sell, except to us. So, in order to get the New Orleans, the Navy Department was compelled to take the Albany.

The war began with the Albany left at a British shipyard, and Great Britain declined to allow the ship to sail from England while the war was in progress. The only thing that interferes with the accomplishment of the Navy Department's desire to ask Great Britain to release the Albany is the propriety of making such a request before the war is officially ended. It appears likely, however, that the request will be made through diplomatic channels. Spain may object to favorable action on the request by Great Britain, taking the ground that, while hostilities have ceased by agreement, the war is technically in progress. The Albany has not been completed, but she is in condition to make the voyage across the Atlantic.

TWO MODERN HELENS.

Helen of Troy is fast losing her prestige, because the Helens of America are doing just as famous things as she did. Of course, everybody knows Helen of New York and her now historic contribution of $100,000 to the war fund. There is also a Helen of Philadelphia who can draw checks. This Helen is a dear little girl, Miss Helen M. Goodin, of the immature age of seven, whose father is a hotel owner in the Quaker City. She has heard the guests of the house talking day after day of the peace jubilee and its beauties, and the enormous amount of money it would require to pay for it all, so she sat down, took her check book, and drew a check for $100 to the order of the jubilee committee. The child has considerable money of her own, and she has already learned much of banking methods, which some older people do not understand. She writes a clear, childish hand, and her father was a proud man when he turned the check in to the jubilee committee.

[L.S.] TO, Lucrie F. Post, Frederick W. Vanderbilt, and to all others interested in the land hereafter mentioned, Greeting:

WHEREAS, Oliver H. P. Belmont by his petition to the Board of Aldermen of the City of Newport, in said state, has prayed said Board to declare the following described piece of land to be a public highway to wit: that strip of land in said Newport, about forty feet in width extending from Bellevue avenue to Coggeshall avenue and known as Lake View avenue, alleging that the same has been for more than twenty years last past, quietly, peaceably and actually used and improved and considered as a Public Highway. And it being shown to said Board that you are interested in, or have claims to said land through which said so-called Avenue is laid, or some part thereof, said Board referred the consideration of said petition to the 15th day of November, A. D. 1898 at 10 o'clock A. M., in the Aldermen's Chamber at the City Hall, in said Newport.

You are, therefore, hereby notified to appear before said Board at said time and place, if you see fit, to show cause, if any you have, why the prayer of said petition should not be granted, and said piece or strip of land declared by said Board of Aldermen to be a public highway according to the statute in such case made and provided.

ORDERED and given by said Board of Aldermen on the eleventh day of October, A. D. 1898.

Signed and sealed by order and in behalf of said Board of Aldermen by William G. Stevens, Clerk of said Board, on the day last aforesaid.

Philippine Problem May Not be Difficult.

Question Turns on Allowance by Way of Compensation.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Advices from Paris are to the effect that there is no change in the peace negotiation situation. The administration has the same hopeful feeling of success that was entertained yesterday at the cabinet meeting, and the statement is reiterated that negotiations are in a fair way to be brought to a speedy termination. There has been some informal discussion of the Philippine question between the American and Spanish commissioners, with the result that the American commissioners have indicated to the administration that the settlement will not be as difficult as anticipated some time ago. The determination seems to have been reached by the United States government to retain all of the Philippine islands, and the question for controversy will be over the allowance to Spain for the islands. This feature of the case is now being carefully considered by the administration in Washington and by the American commissioners in Paris. In this matter the conclusions of the United States government will be based upon what is believed just and proper, and, as in the case of the Cuban article of the protocol, the United States position will be in effect an ultimatum. If accepted by the Spanish commissioners, as is believed to be likely, the details will then remain to be arranged, but no difficulty is anticipated after the main question is settled.

NONE WILLING TO ACCEPT.

Difficulty in Forming a French Cabinet Lies in the War Ministry.

PARIS, Oct. 29.—The newspapers here consider that the difficulty which is delaying the formation of a new cabinet lies in the selection of a minister of war. It is believed that M. Dupuy will not find a general willing to accept it.

Indians Say There Will be No Further Trouble.

BAKER CITY, Ore., Oct. 29.—A telephone message from Canon City states that Columbia Joe and nine warriors came into Prairie City yesterday and informed the citizens that there would be no further trouble. Settlers are arming themselves, however. Three of the Indians will die, making a total of seven killed since the trouble began.

Mussulmans Executed for Massacre of British Soldiers.

CANDIA, Crete, Oct. 29.—Five more of the Musselmans convicted of taking part in the massacre of British soldiers September 6 were executed today. In addition four Bashi Bazoulks have been sentenced to twelve years' imprisonment at hard labor. Since the departure of the Turkish troops a number of additional guilty Mussulmans have been discovered daily. It appears, also, that the Turkish officers appropriated the valuables looted by their soldiers.

Sailed for Manila.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 29.—United States transport steamer Ohio, conveying two battalions of the First Washington volunteers to Manila, sailed shortly before midnight last night. The troops are commanded by Colonel John D. Wheily.

Bringing Sick and Wounded from Porto Rico.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—United States army hospitalship Missouri arrived today from several ports in Porto Rico, with 271 sick and wounded patients, most of whom are suffering with malarial fever, typhoid fever and dysentery. They are Illinois, Kentucky and Pennsylvania troops, with a few Ohio and Wisconsin men among them. L. Burton Bradish, corporal Company A, Third Illinois, and Henry M. Morrison, private Company H, Fourth Ohio, died. The former was buried at Mayaguez, the latter at sea.

SENATOR MORGAN'S VIEWS.

Speaks on Trade Expansion and the Future of Cuba and the Philippines.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 29.—Senator J. T. Morgan, who is taking part in the Congressional campaign in this state, spoke at Seals hall last night. He dwelt chiefly on the subject of trade and territorial expansion, especially as relates to the South.

With regard to the Nicaraguan canal he said he thought the time had arrived when public sentiment would practically force the present Congress to act favorable upon it. The war had brought about the situation.

As to Cuba's future, Senator Morgan said the United States will not take the island by the ear and pull it into the Union, but we will hold it until the people there awake to the realization that their greatest security and prosperity lies in annexation to this country as a state which they will seek.

As to the Philippines, the great distance renders the situation with them different from that of Cuba and Porto Rico, but he did not believe there is a man in this country who favors the United States turning its back upon these people who need the enlightenment and liberty we can give them.

The Senator said that Spanish silver is being driven out of Cuba and Porto Rico by our money, and that a big demand for our silver in those islands will follow, thus practically accomplishing the remonetization of silver.

DEATHS IN CAMPS.

Percentage Last Summer Less Than During the Civil War.

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—Commissioner of Pensions H. Clay Evans, who is in this city, states that up to September 30 the war with Spain had caused the loss of the lives of 2,000 American soldiers and sailors. He further declared that the statistics of his office show that the percentage of deaths in camps from disease during last summer was much less than during the civil war.

Asked for further particulars, Commissioner Evans said: "During the civil war 40,000 men were killed in battle and 300,000 perished in camps and prisons. From official figures which I have recently completed, covering a period from May 10 to September 30, I find that the total number of deaths as a result of the war with Spain was 2,906. Of this number 107 were officers. At Santiago the loss of life was 22 officers and 222 men. At Cardenas 1 officer was killed. Since the battles on Cuban soil 61 men have died of wounds received in service.

"The total number of American soldiers that have died in camps from disease are 80 officers and 2,520 privates. This is remarkable, in view of the terrible climatic disadvantages, and it fully verifies the soldiers' adage, that disease kills more men than bullets. There have been 600 claims for pensions filed to date as a result of the war.

"In the Cuban campaign the loss of so many officers is accounted for by the fact that Spanish sharpshooters hid in the trees and dense foliage, used smokeless powder, and picked off the officers with ease."

Commissioner Evans says that the loss of life resulting from the destruction of the Maine in Havana harbor will be placed on the same basis as mortality in battle. He holds that the general law providing for indemnity to sailors and soldiers in the federal service will apply to the explosion at Havana.

HOSPITAL CORPS MEN.

Those Transferred for Volunteer Regiments May Obtain Discharges.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Major General Miles today issued a circular to the army which is of general interest to all volunteer regiments. It affects particularly all the enlisted men in the volunteer regiments who were transferred during the Spanish war to the hospital corps of the regular army. The circular provides as follows:

"Privates of the hospital corps, U. S. A., who have been transferred from volunteer regiments which are to be mustered out of the service, will be discharged, if they so request, upon the day on which their former regiment is mustered out, provided that their services have been honest and faithful. The names of such men will be forwarded by the surgeons commanding hospitals and ambulance companies, through military channels, to the adjutant general, with as little delay as practicable. Applications for the discharge of the men of the hospital corps who enlisted in that corps, or who were transferred from regiments still in service, will not be approved, except under extraordinary circumstances."

WORKING WELL.

Fall River Pooling and Curtailment Satisfactory.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Oct. 29.—Manufacturers agree that the pooling and curtailment by print cloth mills is having a satisfactory effect. It has raised prices to two cents, and is holding them there. All the mills in the agreement will curtail four weeks, and from 800,000 to 900,000 pieces will be withheld from the market. The stock on hand has been found to be only about half that currently reported before the consolidation of interests.

VIRDEN INJUNCTIONS DISMISSED.

Believed to be Another Attempt to Arbitrate Differences.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 29.—The injunction cases against Edward Cahill and twenty-five other miners of Virden, brought by the Chicago-Virden Coal Company, enjoining the miners from interfering with the operation of the mine, were today dismissed in the circuit court by the complainant. It is believed this is preliminary to an effort to again arbitrate the differences between the company and the employes.

INVESTIGATION ORDERED.

New Hampshire Republican State Committee Under Fire.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—The civil service commission has ordered an investigation of the charges preferred by ex-Governor Busiel of New Hampshire against the Republican state committee of New Hampshire, for making political assessments upon United States officials in that state. An agent of the commission has been sent to New Hampshire to inaugurate the proceedings.

CHARGES WITHOUT BASIS.

Chippewa Indian Timber Land Sales Investigated.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Secretary Bliss has been investigating the alleged scandals in connection with the sale of timber lands of the Chippewa Indians and will treat the subject in his forthcoming report to Congress. The charges upon investigation are shown to be utterly without foundation. Under the treaty of 1889 the United States has advanced to the Indians over $2,000,000, and as yet has been re-imbursed only to the extent of $600,000. The expense of estimating the cost of the timber lands which are to be sold has been rather heavy, owing to the fact that there have been several boards, but the present board is doing its work with perfect satisfaction. The secretary's report will clear up the misapprehension which exists in certain quarters regarding the sale of these timber lands.

Trinidad Parcel Post Treaty Signed.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Sir Julian Pauncefote the British ambassador and Postmaster General Smith today affixed their signatures to the parcel post treaty between the United States and the British colony of Trinidad. The treaty is drawn up in the regular form of the universal postal union.

—At 8:40 o'clock last evening a still alarm was rung in for a slight fire in the Newport Bank building on Washington square. The soot in the chimney caught and set fire to the joist over the bank ceiling. The chemical extinguished the slight blaze.

—Miss Matilda Downing, sister of Rev. Mortimer Downing, late of St. Joseph's Church, died yesterday at the home of her mother in Providence. It is probable that many of St. Joseph's parishioners will attend the funeral, which will take place from St. Michael's Church, Providence Monday morning.

THE POLITICAL SITUATION.

All the regular nominations so far made have been filed at the city clerk's office, and so far no declinations are in. There remains unfilled the Republican nomination for mayor, the Democratic nomination for city treasurer, which will probably remain blank, and on the council tickets Democratic candidates for the First, Second and Third wards and on the Republican in the fifth. The latter will probably remain blank, as usual. The general impression is that Mr. A. Livingston Mason will be the standard bearer for the Republicans. All nominations must be filed tonight.

PORTSMOUTH.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

The Sunday evening services at the Methodist Episcopal Church will include a prelude, "Are Quakers Christians?" and an address, "A Sunday in Mid-Ocean and its Lessons." Miss Susie Littlefield will sing.

Mrs. Catherine R. Williams, widow of Richard Williams, who has been sick for a long time, died Wednesday at her home near Mint Water brook, where she had lived alone for many years. The funeral services took place Friday morning. Rev. Henry W. McCrone officiating. A beautiful ivy wreath with English violets was upon the casket. The burial was in the Portsmouth cemetery, beside her husband, who died a long time ago. She was an aged woman and had been befriended and carefully looked after by Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Sisson and Mrs. E. P. Francis of Fall River.

NOT SO LIVELY.

Only In the Fifth and Fourth Was There Any Interest.

Democrats Again Nominate Mayor Boyle to Head Their Ticket.

The Democrats of the city held their ward caucuses and city convention for the nomination of candidates for city officials last evening. The caucuses, except in the Fourth and Fifth wards, were very tame affairs; in fact, that in the First was hardly an affair at all, at the hour and place named in the call. The attendance ranged from three faithful ones in the First to a very large gathering and a lively contest in the Fifth, the interest increasing steadily from the upper to the lower ward. In three wards no nominations were made for aldermen, councilmen, wardens and clerks, these matters being left to the city committee. In the Fourth and Fifth the present delegation were nominated for re-election.

Each ward elected its quota of delegates to the city convention, which met at the State House as soon as the caucus in the Fifth ward was concluded. Hon. Patrick J. Boyle was nominated for re-election as Mayor, and William P. Clarke, William G. Ward, Jr., Daniel B. Fearing and Henry Stevens, Jr., were named for school committeemen, the first two to succeed themselves and the last two in place of Dr. C. F. Barker and Gardiner S. Perry, whose terms expire next January. The convention made no nomination for city treasurer, leaving that to the city committee.

First Ward.

The wardroom was lighted, but no one opened the door, the Democrats evidently thinking they had enough caucus Wednesday evening, when a number of them were interested in the Republican caucus. The three democrats who assembled in front of the door decided to go to the city convention, hoping to there find enough voters to fill the list of delegates. This was done and a caucus was held, with W. J. Christmas as chairman and J. H. Marks as clerk. The nomination of a council ticket was referred to the city committee and only delegates were elected.

Second Ward.

Ten Democrats assembled in the wardroom opposite Equality Park to make up the caucus of the party for the nomination of candidates for alderman and councilmen and to elect delegates to the city committee. Frank F. Nolan was elected chairman and J. Frank Albro secretary. It was voted to refer the nomination of candidates for members of the City Council and for warden and clerk to the city committee.

Third Ward.

The caucus in the Third ward was in marked contrast to the Republican gathering there Wednesday night. There was scarcely a score present, not as many Democrats as participated in the choice of the Republican nominees. The wardroom was large enough to hold all who attended and the interest was lively.

Emmanuel J. Roderick was elected chairman, and Michael Sullivan secretary, after Patrick H. Condon and Silas H. Hazard had declined and he had endeavored to do so. Nominations were asked for a candidate for alderman, but this matter, as well as that of the nomination of councilmen, warden and clerk, was referred to the city committee. The caucus was adjourned after a session of less than ten minutes.

Fourth Ward.

Long before 8 o'clock the voters in the Fourth ward assembled at the polling place on Young street. The candidates, with printed and written ballots, were on hand early, and it was apparent that there was to be a spirited meeting. The voting place was filled two minutes after the doors were opened.

The caucus was called to order by Charles H. Koehne, Jr., of the city committee and James B. Cottrell was chosen chairman.

The chairman called for nominations for alderman. John Cremin named W. J. Burke and several presented the name of Louis Shanteler, the present alderman. The check list was called for, but the motion was voted down. Michael J. Byrnes and John Cremin were appointed tellers. Mr. Shanteler received 90 votes, Mr. Burke 7 and there were 5 scattering.

There was no real contest for the positions of councilmen, the nominations resulting in the presentation of the members who served the ward during the past year.

It was not expected that there would be a fight for the positions of warden and clerk but there were four nominees for warden—James F. Sullivan, James Nolan, W. J. Cremin and R. J. Lawton. The vote stood: Sullivan, 59; Nolan, 16; Cremin, 12; Lawton, 4, and there were 4 scattering votes.

The names of Cornelius J. Reilly and William J. Cremin were presented for clerk, the former receiving 74 votes and the latter 31; again there were four scattering votes. The announcement of the result of the vote for warden and clerk was received with great enthusiasm.

A score or more desired to go to the convention as delegates, but after some sparring five delegates were elected.

On motion of Mr. Koehne the city committee was empowered to fill vacancies.

Fifth Ward.

The promise of a hot time in the fifth ward was fully met by the caucus that assembled in and about the wardrooms. "About" is used because many of those present could get within the doors only after some of those within went out to allow them a chance to vote. The crowd outside seemed if possible larger than that within, although the hose reel and horse had been removed to give the voters all the room there was. The foresight of this, aside from the room afforded, was shown when a still alarm was rung in amid the excitement of the voting. Many made a break for the door, thinking that the horse was in the stall and would rush out as they had seen him do in practice. There was, however, no stampede, and those who started to go were soon re-assured. The incident did not even disturb the serenity of the meeting.

It was a good-natured crowd, that was out for fun and business, and though some strong talk was indulged in, especially before the ballot for second councilman, there was at no time a display of feeling and the oratory only served to give the crowd amusement. They assisted in furnishing much themselves by the side remarks always to be expected in this ward. There was, however, less tendency than usual to make foolish nominations for the fun of the crowd, and this helped to facilitate business.

It was 8:02 when Councilman Kelley read the call, Patrick J. Sullivan, of Rocky Farm, was nominated for chairman. Here E. C. O'Neill suggested that owing to the great crowd present it would be difficult to cast a ballot unless the crowd went outdoors and returned in single file, otherwise there would be much confusion and unnecessary crowding and a fair ballot would be a difficult thing to secure. This seemed reasonable to all but the advice was not followed. Mr. Sullivan was elected chairman without opposition and D. W. Maher also had a walkover for clerk.

Then the fun began. Ex-Councilman Vaughan moved to use the check list and produced one. E. C. O'Neill objected, saying it would take three hours to carry on the balloting. Mr. Vaughan said he was willing to be beaten by the tax-paying voters of the ward, and thought no others should vote on the council tickets. Mr. O'Neill said he believed all present were honest men and intended to do right. William Quick said the ward lists were not yet ready, and so one could not be used. Mr. Vaughan said the alderman from the wards was present, and he would accept his word for any names that should be added to the old list. Mr. O'Neill said something, and some one said he wanted to run the caucus as he did the one a year ago. The chair ruled that the check list would not be used and the ruling was accepted. Nominations for alderman were called for, and John E. O'Neill, the present incumbent, and ex-Councilman Michael P. Vaughan were named. William Quick and Thomas Curley were appointed tellers.

All this had been done so quickly that at 8:12, or ten minutes after the reading of the call began, the ballots were dropping into the hats, before the eyes of a dozen inspectors, whose number was increased to 32 before the count was finished. It took only 14 minutes to cast the ballot, but it required 20 minutes to count it. The result was: O'Neill, 184; Vaughan, 109; scattering, 16; total vote, 300. Alderman O'Neill was declared the candidate, a proposition to make the nomination unanimous meeting with a few noes.

For first councilman W. J. McCormick moved that Michael J. Murphy, the present first councilman, be unanimously nominated, and he was.

Then came the real fun of the meeting. For second councilman Patrick J. Morgan, the present incumbent, John E. Sullivan and Daniel E. Doherty were named. The chairman announced that every voter should announce his name before depositing his ballot. This was objected to by Mr. McCormick and Mr. Doherty, who said that the same rules that governed the former ballot should prevail. The chair explained that he made this ruling because he knew that in the rush of the former ballot some had voted more than once. There was a good deal of talk in which a great many participated and which lasted five minutes. Finally the chair said the ballot would go on as before and calm at once prevailed, and the ballots began to drop if anything with more of a rush than before. It was here that a telephone was received from the state house asking if the caucus was over. A reply was sent that it was not half over. It took 12 minutes to cast the vote, and 20 to count it. The result was: Morgan, 177; Sullivan, 78; Doherty, 65; scattering, 6; total vote 326, and Councilman Morgan was declared the nominee amid great cheering.

Michael F. Kelley was then unanimously nominated for third councilman, the call for noes bringing out only ayes.

The delegates to the convention and the warden and clerk were then quickly selected without opposition, the crowd seeming to feel that it had had enough fun for one night and at 9:32 the caucus adjourned, after giving the city committee power to fill vacancies.

Following is the list of delegates to the city convention:

First ward—John F. Shea, William J. Corcoran, William J. Christmas, John H. Corridon, John H. Marks.

Second ward—P. J. Murphy, John Myers, J. J. Coffey, F. F. Nolan, Philip Schneider.

Third ward—Howard Smith, Lewis Brown, P. R. Condon, John H. Cottrell, Silas H. Hazard.

Fourth ward—Louis Shanteler, Edward Toomey, Michael J. Burns, James M. Lacey, Richard J. Lawton.

Fifth ward—E. C. O'Neill, Dennis W. Maher, P. J. Morgan, Michael F. Kelley, Michael J. Kelley.

The council ticket and wardens and clerks nominated in the fourth and fifth are as follows:

Fourth Ward.

Alderman—Louis Shanteler.
Councilmen—Hugh P. Brady, Charles H. Koehne, Jr., Dennis Shanahan.
Warden—James F. Sullivan.
Clerk—Cornelius J. Riley.

Fifth Ward.

Alderman—John E. O'Neill.
Councilmen—Michael J. Murphy, Patrick J. Morgan, Michael F. Kelley.
Warden—James F. Sheehey.
Clerk—Michael J. Sullivan.

City Convention.

The delegates from the Fifth ward having put in an appearance, the Democratic city committee was at 9:55 o'clock

WHAT DO THE CHILDREN DRINK?

Don't give them tea or coffee. Have you tried the new food drink called Grain-O. It is delicious and nourishing and takes the place of coffee. The more Grain-O you give the children the more health you distribute through their systems. Grain-O is made of pure grains, and when properly prepared tastes like the choice grades of coffee but costs about 1-4 as much. All grocers sell it. 15c. and 25c.

SUPERVISORS SELECTED.

Many Additional Changes Made in the Voting Lists.

The board of aldermen yesterday afternoon held its second meeting to canvas the voting lists for the Congressional and municipal election, Tuesday, November 8, and was in session a little more than an hour. The collector of taxes reported the names of 24 persons who, being otherwise qualified, had paid a tax since the last previous canvas, and the names on the lists were changed from the registry to the taxpayers' side. Then came a number of changes of residences within wards and from one ward to another, as they were reported by the city clerk or the several members; a few were not acted upon and will await an investigation by the alderman from the ward in which the person is a voter. In addition to the changes in the taxpaying list, there were the following transfers: Nine were added and 8 taken from the First ward list; 7 were added and 5 taken from the Second ward; 11 were added and 9 taken from the Third ward; 5 were added and 10 taken from the Fourth ward, and 5 were added and 1 taken from the Fifth ward. In all, 27 were added and 33 taken from the lists.

After canvassing the lists the board elected the following supervisors for the election.

First ward. Republican—Harry B. Oxx, Aaron C. Perry, Fletcher W. Lawton. Democratic—William H. Corcoran, Thomas F. Savage, William J. Christmas.

Second ward. Republican—Robert C. Ebbs, Joseph T. Ray, 2d., John R. Austin. Democratic—Maurice A. Horgan, Isbon Congdon, James A. Girr.

Third ward. Republican—Nathan T. Hodson, William S. Bates, William S. DeCoursey. Democratic—Benjamin U. Carr, Silas H. Hazard, Lawrence Brady.

Fourth ward. Republican—Frank S. Pember, William F. Smith, Edward W. Kelley. Democratic—Richard Walsh, Thomas G. Williams, Patrick Burns.

Fifth ward. Republican—Julius J. Taylor, Jr., Joseph H. Hull, Thomas Beattie. Democratic—Jeremiah J. Sullivan, Thomas F. Hynes, Charles Dawson.

The Republican lists contained the names of Thatcher T. Bowler for selection as supervisor in the Third ward, of M. Alonzo Van Horne for the Fourth ward and Edward B. Taylor, Jr., for the Fifth ward, and as they are candidates for office, the first for ward clerk, the second for common councilman and the third for school committee, their names were left off.

The board of aldermen will meet next Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock to complete the canvass of the voting lists.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—Mr. J. V. Parker has returned from New York.

—Chief of Police Kaull has been spending a few days in Providence.

—Mr. F. S. G. d' Hauteville has taken a house in New York for the winter.

—Miss Roberts and Miss Trent are guests at the Gordon McKay cottage.

—Mrs. Louis Q. Jones entertained at dinner last night. Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt will entertain at dinner tonight.

—Miss Ferguson, daughter of Major T. B. Ferguson, former minister to Sweden and Norway, is visiting Mrs. John Whipple.

—Rev. George Whitefield Mead gave an interesting address before the students of the Newport Business College yesterday afternoon.

—Improvements are being made to the chapel of the Thames Street Methodist Episcopal Church. The contractor is Mr. Charles F. Paddock.

—Acting Boatswain J. Hartman's order of October 14, detaching him from the San Francisco and ordering him to the Indiana, is modified; when detached from the San Francisco he will remain on treatment at the hospital at Norfolk.

—Mr. James H. Taylor of this city has been granted an original pension.

—Rev. E. S. Kilpatrick will conclude his services as pastor of the Second Baptist Church tomorrow, preaching his farewell service in the evening. His resignation will go into effect November 1 and Rev. Mr. Kilpatrick expects to leave soon for Trinidad, West Indies.

—A fire in Fall River yesterday afternoon delayed the train service this side of that city so that the train due here at 5:40 did not arrive until 7:31, and the one due at 7 was delayed until 7:45. The 5 p. m. train out of Newport was also held up at Fall River.

CARELESSNESS.
Often Causes No End of Suffering.
Probably half the people who see this article suffer from Piles. It is one of the commonest diseases and one of the most obstinate. People have it for years and just because it is not immediately fatal they neglect it. Carelessness causes no end of suffering. Carelessness about so simple a thing as piles has often caused death. Horrible operations occur during surgical treatment, often causing death.
Piles are simple in the beginning and easily cured. They can be cured even in the worst stages, without pain or loss of blood, quickly, surely and completely. There is only one remedy that will do it—Pyramid Pile Cure.
It allays the inflammation immediately, heals the irritated surface and with continued treatment reduces the swelling and puts the membranes into good, sound, healthy condition. The cure is thorough and permanent. Druggists sell the Pyramid Pile Cure at 50 cents. Send for Free book on cause and cure of Piles by addressing Pyramid Co., Marshall, Mich.

CLOTHING.
A WRONG IMPRESSION.
Don't get the impression that we make cheap suits ONLY. During past few weeks we have delivered to our customers suits ranging in price from $32 to $12, one customer ordering TWO suits, one at $25 and one $22; another TWO, one at $10.50, one $13; another TWO, one $13.50, one $18. We give you these figures to show you we do not confine ourselves to low price suits, but do best as well.

A Suffering Soldier.

This veteran fought for his country; suffered untold hardships, and returned with health shattered. Many a brave soldier has the same history. To-day this one rejoices in a new-found strength and tells his experience to benefit others.

No man is better known and liked in that rich tier of Illinois counties, of which Peoria is the centre, than genial Chester S. Harrington, of Princeville, Ill.

Mr. Harrington is a veteran of the late war. Like many another brave soldier, he suffered, not only during that service, but for years afterwards from disease contracted then.

For years his health was shattered; his sufferings increased. He was unable to gain relief, but now he tells a story which is of profit to many:

"I served three years in the 124th Illinois, enlisting at Kewanee, Ill.," said he. "I was in Libby Prison and suffered like many another Northern soldier.

"The strain of army life did its work in undermining my health, although the collapse did not come for sometime after.

"For fifteen years I suffered from general debility and nervousness so badly that I could not sleep. Indigestion resulted and my misery increased.

"My eyes began to fail, and as my body lost vitality my mind seemed to give way. I could scarcely remember events that happened but a few weeks before.

"For two years I was unfitted for business. I was just able to creep around during part of this time, and there were many times when I could not get up.

"My brother is a doctor, but all his efforts to help me failed to give any relief.

"I tried a number of remedies without avail. Finally, having read articles regarding cures that had been effected by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, I decided to try them. That was in 1896. I bought a box and took the pills according to instructions.

"Four days later I had the happiest hours I had known for years. That night I went to sleep easily and slept soundly as a child and awoke refreshed.

"After I had taken four boxes of the pills, I found that I was cured and had also increased 27 pounds in weight.

"This greatly surprised my friends, who thought my case was a hopeless one. I began my work again and have continued ever since in excellent health.

"Another valuable gain to me was, that while I was taking these pills I had been cured of the smoking habit, which had formed when I was a boy and had clung to me all these years. The craving for tobacco left me and I have never experienced it since.

"I cannot say enough for these pills and have recommended them to many."

To verify this statement Mr. Harrington made affidavit to its truthfulness before Lincoln M. Coy, Notary Public.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People strike at the root of disease by acting directly upon the impure blood. Their power is marvelous and many wonderful cures have been made. Druggists consider them a potent remedy, and all sell them.

called to order by Chairman F. F. Nolan. The roll-call showed that every delegate was present.

Lewis Brown was elected chairman and made a somewhat humorous speech on the growth of Democratic feeling. Dennis W. Maher was elected temporary secretary, and the temporary organization was then made permanent.

When the chairman called for nominations for mayor F. F. Nolan said that it had been his pleasure for the past four years to place in nomination the gentleman who had led the party to success at the municipal election. He had had four years' experience with him in municipal affairs, and had not heard a murmur against him from any one in the party. As chief executive he had so conducted himself in his exalted position that no one in the party had aught to say against his re-nomination. The convention had assembled not to make a nomination but to ratify the one made by the party. That the candidate has the respect of a great part of the opposite party is shown by their support on election day.

There was no occasion for a eulogy. All knew his shrewd tact, and his discernment and understanding of the requirements of the city as a watering place. Depending as Newport does in a large measure on visitors, the mayor must use good judgment in dealing with these people. He cannot afford to strictly enforce all the old Puritan blue laws. That is why he receives the support of so many. We know that he represents the sentiment that prevails in the city, that Newport should have a liberal and careful man at the helm. That is why it gives me great pleasure to nominate P. J. Boyle for mayor. (Applause.)

There was no opposing nomination and Mayor Boyle was unanimously re-nominated.

Nominations for school committee were then called for. Mr. Nolan said it was a matter of grave importance that this subject should receive careful consideration, and moved a recess for ten minutes. It was taken, the delegates adjourning to the senate chamber. They returned in ten minutes and reported the following ticket: William P. Clarke, Daniel B. Fearing, William G. Ward and Henry C. Stevens, Jr. The ticket was unanimously adopted.

The nomination of a candidate for city treasurer and the matter of filling vacancies were referred to the city committee, and at 10:10 the convention adjourned.

Hon. Patrick J. Boyle, the Democratic candidate for re-election as mayor, was born in this city March 8, 1860, and received his early education in the parochial schools connected with St. Mary's Church, pursuing a classical course under Rev. Philip Gride, D. D. In 1877 he entered the employ of the Newport Gas Light Company, and has been with it as clerk and bookkeeper to the present time. He entered the City Council in 1885 and served eight years, six in the common council and two in the board of aldermen. He was president of the common council in 1892. He was elected mayor in 1895 to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mayor Waters, and was re-elected in 1896 and again for the present year. During his service in the City Council he was a member of a number of important committees. He is a member of the Robert Emmet Association and of Newport Council, Knights of Columbus.

William P. Clarke, who is nominated for re-election to the school committee, is the leading news dealer of this city. He was first elected a member of the school board in 1890 and is now completing his third consecutive term of three years each. He has represented the city in the state house of representatives, and is a prominent member of the vestry of Emmanuel Church. He has been for many years a member of the Newport Business Men's Association.

Hon. Daniel B. Fearing, named for the school committee, was mayor of Newport in 1894. He was born here and was educated at St. Mark's School and at Harvard University, being a trustee of the former institution. He is a member of the Newport Reading Room, Newport Casino, Newport Golf Club and the Newport Business Men's Association, and of the New York Yacht Club and other metropolitan social organizations. He is a director of the National Bank of Rhode Island, and junior warden of St. John's Lodge, A. F. and A. M.

William G. Ward, Jr., the third nominee for the school committee, is a member of the real estate and insurance firm of Davis & Ward. He has been a member of the school board six years. He is a member of Rhode Island Lodge and Aquidneck Encampment, I. O. O. F., having recently held the chief office in each organization, and is a member of St. Paul's Lodge, A. F. and A. M., and of the Newport Business Men's Association.

Henry C. Stevens, Jr., the fourth nominee on the school committee ticket, is teller of the Newport National Bank, major and present commanding officer of the Newport Artillery, past master of St. Paul's Lodge, A. F. and A. M., and past commander of Washington Commandery, Knights Templar, and a member of Weenat Shassit Tribe of Red Men, General Burnside Assembly, Royal Society of Good Fellows, and other organizations. He is a graduate of the Rogers High School.

All the nominees of the ward caucuses for aldermen and councilmen are members of the present City Council. In the Fourth ward, Louis Shantcler, the nominee for alderman, conducts a provision store and is a member of the order of Elks and Foresters. Hugh P. Brady, for first councilman, is a clerk; Charles H. Kachne, Jr., for second councilman, is employed in the law office of Colonel Samuel R. Honey, and Dennis Shanahan, for third councilman, is engaged in the grain business. All, with the exception of Councilman Kachne, are serving their first term.

In the Fifth ward, Alderman John E. O'Neill is serving his fourth term in the board of aldermen, having previously served two years in the common council, being a members at various times of the committee on finance, streets and highways, fire department and street lights. He is cashier for the New York & Boston Despatch Company. Michael Murphy, for first councilman, is a saloon keeper; Patrick J. Morgan, for second councilman, is a mason and builder, senior member of the firm of Morgan Bros., and Michael J. Kelley, for third councilman, is a plumber. MADE FOR HADING.

Gowns for the Coming Tour of the Actress.

PARIS, Oct. 17.—This being our first article to the women of North America, we have endeavored to think of the most entertaining topic for them—it being understood always that the subject is dress. Articles of this kind follow the same general lines, and we will endeavor to infuse a little originality by giving an illustration of Mme. Jane Hading in one of the latest dresses made for her, and also describing twenty-four others which we have made for the trousseau in her coming tour of Europe.

Mme. Jane Hading is particularly interesting to Americans at the present moment, as it was she who toured North America in company with Coquelin, who created the title role of "Cyrano de Bergerac," which play is now creating such a sensation.

One would think at first that perhaps these dresses are too radical to give valuable ideas. The contrary is true, as most of the plays are of the society order, and wherein the dresses made for Mme. Hading are, as a rule, the very height of fashion, yet all modified dresses are instigated by the more elaborate ones.

For the play "Princess of Bagdad" she has an evening dress of white watered silk with silver tissue applications and embroidered with red flowers; the sleeves and sash are of cream lace.

THE "HADING" GOWN.

Maison Laferrière, (Paris.)

For "L'Etrangere," she wears in the first act an evening dress of pink chiffon embroidered with silver flowers, pearls and sequins, the hem and sides of the skirt being trimmed with coral chenille; the trimming of the bodice and long sleeves consists of embroidered Venetian lace, and large roses are worn at the belt. For the second act she changes the evening gown for a lovely house dress made of soft white satin, embroidered with green leaves, combined with large incrustations of ecru guipure over white chiffon; a short bolero and the sleeves are made of big-flowered cream lace; the top of the bodice is of a pretty shade of green embroidered velvet. For the third act she dons a visiting dress of green velvet embroidered with silver and gold, dark fur being the only trimming used; as a finish to this elegant toilet a handsome cloak made of gray plush and gray lutton, and covered with steel-embroidered black lace, is worn, the collar and front being trimmed with fur. For the fourth act she wears a reception gown of white satin, veiled with black net, embroidered with blue and jet spangles; the front of the bodice and the wrists of the long sleeves are made of white chiffon.

In the play "La Visite de Noces" a gown of white brocaded silk is trimmed with flounces of white chiffon incrusted with black Chantilly lace; the yoke, sleeves and sash are of cream-colored lace.

An exquisite Louis XIII costume is worn in "L'Aventuriere." Old green stamped velvet forms the large, slashed sleeves, and the overskirt opening over a petticoat of old rose brocade. Heavy gold lace set with yellow stones trims the gown. The large, flaring collar is of cream guipure.

A beautiful evening gown is worn in the third act of "Adrienne Lecouvreur." It consists of white silk brocaded with gold, the overskirt opening over an apron of white silk covered with gold lace. Gold lace applique also embellishes the hips and back. Décollete and short sleeves are trimmed with cream-colored lace. A long garland of bright-hued flowers is worn across the bodice and skirt.

"Le Maitre de Forges" ("The Iron-master") requires a number of handsome costumes. In the first act Mme. Hading, as the aristocratic heroine, wears a dainty, girlish gown of white gauze, with cream-colored lace incrustations, a long sash of green ribbon is attached with a strass buckle. The wedding gown in the second act consists of white silk veiled with lace-incrusted white net, and trimmed with orange blossoms. A reception dress in the third act is made of pale blue velvet, with large embroidered flowers of white silk; real old Alencon lace forms the rich garniture, and the small yoke and long, tight sleeves are of heavy cream lace. In the fourth act is worn a gown of black satin covered with superb black Venetian lace embroidered with jet; this gown is shown in the illustration.

In the first act of "Le Sphinx" is worn an exquisite, trained evening dress of pink satin veiled with pink net, embroidered most artistically with pearls and crystals and delicate artificial rose petals, the neck and shoulder garniture being composed of fringes of pearls and gold, and the short arm garniture and the long sash of black lace; sprays of white roses and foliage lend a delicate finish. A dinner dress in the second act is of yellow silk brocaded with a white velvet floral design; the bodice, front and apron are of cream guipure; the hem of the skirt is covered with a wide fringe of cream chenille, and large, red poppies are worn at the bodice and in the hair.

In "Camille" Mme. Hading appears first in an evening gown made with flounces of embroidered white lace over pale green; the long, tight sleeves are of cream lace, with a shoulder garniture of pearls and gold fringe; red camelias are worn at the bodice. In the second act is worn a dainty tea-gown of Irish guipure over pale blue silk, with transparent sleeves of guipure and trimming of blue mousseline de soie; a long mantle is also donned in this act; it is of white and gold brocade, with old gold embroidery, and the complicated trimming consists of white ostrich feathers, lace and mink fur. In the idyllic scene of the third act is worn a garden dress made of white gauze, with insertions of lace and embroidered linen, a long sash of white satin, and roses worn at the bodice; the traveling cloak for the end of this act is of cream-colored cloth, lined with soft, white silk. The ball gown for the fourth act has flounces of embroidered lace, and is trimmed with large sprays of white camelias. In the last act is worn a long sant-de-lit of accordeon-plaited white worsted, trimmed with white lace; a long cloak, worn in the death scene, is of white crepe de chine, trimmed with white Mongolian fur.

Maison Laferrière, (Paris.)

Next week a carriage cloak, contributed by Hirsch & Cie. of Brussels, will be shown.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Wall Street.—The stock market opened firm, with Burlington at 117¼, Louisville 50⅞, Manhattan 95¾, Northern Pacific 40⅝, People's Gas 101⅛, Rock Island 104, Sugar 113⅞, St. Paul 110, Southern preferred 34½, Tobacco 131, Union Pacific preferred 61⅛, and Western Union 92⅛.

10—Prices of railroad stocks advanced at the opening without regard to declines in London, with the exception of St. Paul, which was a shade lower. The specialties, including Sugar, Manhattan and Rubber, showed a sagging tendency. Tobacco quickly recovered its opening decline.

11—The leading railroad stocks did not figure to any extent in the first hour's trading, but changes, though narrow, were upwards. The speculative, and aggressive buying in spots communicated strength to the entire group. Consolidated Gas and Third Avenue jumped 6 points; Tobacco, 2½, and Federals, Steel preferred, Metropolitan, Jersey Central, Minnesota Iron and Paper preferred, between 1 and 2 points. Towards 1 o'clock the market eased off all around on profit taking.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—The weekly bank statement shows the following changes: Surplus reserve—increase, $2,070,225; loans—increase, $10,221,300; specie—increase, $5,295,700; legal tenders—increase, $1,328,800; deposits—increase, $15,781,100; circulation—increase, $22,900. The banks now hold $20,091,550 in excess of legal requirements.

The market seems to be comparatively little concerned about foreign political incidents; indeed, such events as may seem to suggest chances of war have rather a stimulating effect on prices, on the principle that a European war would increase the foreign demand for our food products. The wheat situation is really the main element of strength in stocks. Within the present month fully 25,000,000 bushels of that grain has been engaged for export, and in spite of the advance in price the foreign demand still shows little abatement. The cutting of freight rates tends to encourage foreign purchases, and it now looks as if a large portion of the 1898 crop may be marketed before the thirty-first of December. The freighting capacity of the railroads is thus taxed to its utmost; and that is a condition which, in Wall street, is not easily neutralized by adverse factors.—[Henry Clews.

Exports of cereals and merchandise continue on a large scale, and there are no indications that the foreign demand will grow less, while there is every prospect that the American consumption of European products will become smaller rather than larger. With the exception of a few lines of industry, general business maintains a satisfactory position. The volume of general trade is so steady that it attracts less attention than it otherwise would. The one cut is the small profits, but then it is popular to talk small profits, and unpopular to bring to notice the different methods in process to reduce cost. It is this very low cost, however, that is enabling us to undersell the world.—[Boston News Bureau.

COLONEL WARING.

studied agriculture with James J. Mapes, and during the winter of 1854 made an agriculture lecture tour through Maine and Vermont. The following he took charge of Horace Greeley's farm at Chappaqua, N. Y., remaining there two years. In August, 1857, he was appointed agricultural and drainage engineer of Central Park in New York, remaining there for four years.

In May, 1861, he was appointed major of the Garabaldi Guards and served three months with that organization in the civil war. In August of the same year he was made major of cavalry by General John C. Fremont and went with him to St. Louis, where he raised six companies of cavalry under the name of the Fremont Hussars, which were afterwards consolidated with the Benton Hussars to form the Fourth Missouri cavalry, of which Waring was in February, 1862, commissioned colonel, and with which he served throughout the war, chiefly in the Southwest.

He came to Newport in 1867 and became manager of the Ogden Farm, which under his direction became well known throughout the country by Colonel Waring's articles in agricultural and other papers and magazines.

Since 1877 he had devoted his attention to drainage and sanitary engineering. In June, 1869, he was appointed expert and special agent of the Tenth census of the United States, in charge of the social statistics of cities. In 1882 he was made a member of the national board of health, with which he has since been connected. After the yellow fever epidemic in Memphis, Tenn., in 1878 he devised the system of sewerage that was accepted by that city, and which since that time has been generally adopted.

He had been connected with various agricultural and scientific journals, and edited in 1868 to 1891 the Herd Books of the American Jersey Cattle Club, of which organization he was the founder. Among his other works are "Elements of Agriculture," "Draining for Profit and Draining for Health," "Handy Book of Husbandry," now called the "Book of the Farm," "A Farmer's Vacation," "Whip and Spur," a collection of studies of life with cavalry; "Sanitary Drainage of Houses and Farms," "The Bride of the Rhine," "Village Improvements and Farm Villages," "Sanitary Condition of City and Country Dwelling-Houses," "Tyrol and the Skirt of the Alps," "How to Drain a House" and "Sewerage and Land Drainage."

He had invented many sanitary improvements, chiefly in connection with the drainage of houses and towns, and was regarded as the leading expert in this country on all sanitary matters. He was also consulting engineer when the sewerage system of Paris and Havre were put in.

At the beginning of the administration of Mayor Strong as mayor of New York, Colonel Waring was asked to accept the office of commissioner of street cleaning. He undertook the duties, and although beset on all sides by the politicians, succeeded not only in making New York a clean city but in taking the department entirely out of politics and ridding the city, with its dirt and filth, of one of the most corrupt organizations within its official household. His work in this connection was watched with the greatest interest in all parts of the country, where many of the methods employed were decidedly novel in American municipal affairs, and in many respects new to European cities. His success in making and keeping New York clean has had its effect upon the present administration, which finds itself forced to maintain the high standard which Colonel Waring established. While he was commissioner of street cleaning he went to Europe to make a study of municipal methods, and the report of his investigations has been read with the deepest interest by all who are interested in municipal affairs. He also wrote quite extensively for various magazines telling of his work in New York and his studies in Europe, and his articles wherever published have attracted universal attention. He had been nominated for state engineer and surveyor by the Citizens' state party in New York.

His last public service was as a member of the commission sent to Havana by President McKinley to investigate the sanitary conditions of the Cuban capital and surrounding country and to report on the needs of the island from a sanitary point of view. While in Cuba he made partial reports of the results of his investigations, and had made a number of suggestions for the sanitary improvement of Havana. While at his work in these investigations he undoubtedly contracted the disease which has so unexpectedly resulted in his death. He arrived from Cuba Thursday and yesterday it was announced that he had yellow fever, but that it was not a serious case and would probably not result fatally. It is not known whether he had completed the report of his investigations in Cuba and whether the country will secure the benefits of his last work.

During his thirty years of residence in Newport he held a high place in the esteem of his fellow citizens and showed a marked interest in public affairs. He was deeply interested in the sewerage system of the city, and his advice was frequently sought in matters of sanitary reform. Although busy in various parts of the country, his home, the which the work was laid out and from which it was directed, was located here, until within a few weeks. He was associated with the firm of Waring, Fitzgibbon & Chapman.

Colonel Waring was connected with a number of local institutions, having been for many years a member of the Newport Business Men's Association, which he frequently addressed upon matters in which he was interested for the city's welfare. His last appearance before this association was during his commissionership, when he gave a very interesting talk on his work in New York city. He was a consulting engineer of the Sanitary Protection Society. He retained his citizenship in Newport until he went to New York.

For a number of years he occupied his cottage on the corner of Catherine street and Greenough place. His second wife died here. Two children survive the first marriage—a son, Guy Waring, and a daughter, Miss Daisy Waring. He leaves a widow.

SUNDAY SERVICES

The men's meeting at the Young Men's Christian Association at 6 o'clock will be addressed by Mr. James McLean of New Bedford, who will be accompanied by his son, who will sing several selections. Mr. McLean's subject will be "A Man among Men." W. H. Arnold will lead the morning prayer meeting.

At the Free Scandinavian Mission on Wellington avenue Mr. J. Olsen of Pawtucket will conduct the evening service.

At the First Presbyterian Church the pastor will preach in the morning on "The Marriage of the King's Son," and in the evening will give the last in the series of special discourses under the auspices of the Men's League, the subject being "Growing Old Gracefully."

There will be no service in the Channing Memorial Church; the Sunday school will have its session as usual.

Rev. E. C. Bass, D. D. presiding elder, will preach at the evening service at the Thames Street Methodist Episcopal Church.

At the First Methodist Episcopal Church Rev. E. C. Bass, D. D., presiding elder, will preach at the morning service, and in the evening the pastor will preach, his subject being "Modern Cities and How they Serve us."

Rev. C. H. Spaulding, D. D., of Boston will preach at the First Baptist Church morning and evening.

At the Swedish Methodist Episcopal Church the pastor will preach both morning and evening.

Rev. T. C. McClelland, Ph. D., will preach at both services at the United Congregational Church. In the morning his subject will be "The Rent Issue in the Battle Royal," in which he will have something to say apropos to the present condition of municipal affairs. At the evening service he will give the third of the Short Talks on Great Facts, the subject being "Who is Jesus Christ?"

At the evening service at the Second Baptist Church the pastor, Rev. E. H. Kilpatrick, will preach his farewell sermon.

Rev. F. J. Kinsman of New Bedford will preach at Trinity church.

At the Union Congregational Church there will be preaching by the pastor, Rev. Byron Cranner, morning and evening. The last in the second series of illustrated sermons will be given at the evening service.

JAMES MACLEAN AND HIS SON.

The New Bedford Standard says of James MacLean, who will address the men's meeting at the Young Men's Christian Association tomorrow:

"Mr. McLean has done splendid work in the past two years. He is a Scotchman of unmistakable stamp, but filled with zealous American desire to do all the good he can to all around him, not on Sunday alone, but in every moment of his life. He has been in this country for the past twenty years and from the earliest memory has practiced the precepts taught him at the start in a true Christian home.

His son, John MacLean, has a rich sweet soprano voice and his singing is emotional.

FUNERAL OF R. S. HONE.

The funeral of Mr. Robert S. Hone took place from Trinity Church at 11 o'clock today. Rev. Messrs. Collins, Stone and Porter conducted the services, and there was a large attendance. A special program of music was rendered, and the favorite hymns of the deceased were sung. The body was laid in a black broadcloth casket, which was covered with autumnal flowers. The interment was in the Island cemetery, where many relatives are buried.

Among the many persons present were Cornelius Vanderbilt, Henry A. C. Taylor, Frederick Sheldon, United States Senator Wetmore, A. B. Almon, William R. Travers, John Hone, Julien T. Davies, Thomas J. Gibson, Philip Dowling, Stuyvesant LeRoy, Edward R. Wharton, A. O'D. Taylor, F. S. G. d'Hautoville, John N. A. Griswold, Edward T. Potter, Daniel B. Fearing, Colonel Edward M. Neill, Rev. Dr. Gilliat, Charles H. Russell, Charles Russell Hone, Jr., Mr. Auchincloss and the venerable Mr. Gibson, a gardener in the family for nearly half a century.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—H. L. Dyer has rented for Charles D. Martin, trustee, the store in the Bateman building on Thames street, to the Globe Clothing Company; also, for Mrs. Samuel Engs, the store at 201-203 Thames street, to A. L. McMullin.

—Thomas and Edward Lucas have sold to Henry V. Stanley and wife, for $270, a lot of land bounded south, 50 feet, on Lucas avenue; west, 53 feet, on lands of the grantors; north, 50 feet, and east, 52 feet, on land of P. O'Donnell and wife.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars; free.

MODERN MISSIONS

Addresses upon Various Phases of Their Scope and Spirit.

Fairly large audiences, representing the five Island churches, gathered yesterday afternoon and evening at the First Methodist Episcopal Church, at a union missionary meeting. Rev. T. H. Allen, pastor, was in charge, and conducted the opening exercises; a solo was given in the afternoon, in addition to congregational singing, by Mrs. W. H. Tibbetts, and in the evening a duet by Mrs. Wilbar and Mrs. Peckham. Dr. Bradley played the organ in the evening, and Miss Florence Allen in the afternoon.

Rev. R. S. Moore of Middletown, who gave the first address in the afternoon, on "Christ and Other Masters," said that, while we recognize the religious genius of other sages, there need be no hesitation in carrying to foreign peoples the distinctive message of the greatest Master. Christ has given to the world a doctrine of pure, sweet, abundant life. He came with a message of joy; heathenism offers only despair. The best thing in heathenism is death; Christ brought the promise of life for the present as well as for the future.

"Missions from the Sociological Standpoint" was the theme of Rev. W. H. Butler of Portsmouth, in a thoughtful and suggestive address. Speaking of the vast influx of foreign population all about us, he contended that missionary work can be carried on to much greater advantage among people of alien birth now in this country, amid American environment, than in their native land. He also maintains that the essential object of missions is no more the present conversion of the heathen than it is the introduction into their moral and social lives of ideas and ideals which shall, through all the coming years, permeate their natures and change their condition.

In the evening the first speaker was Rev. P. M. Vinton of the Thames Street church, upon "The Spirit of Christian Missions." This, he said, is world-wide, whole-hearted, enthusiastic; extending to all nations, and entering heart and soul upon the work. The modern spirit of missions is in wide contrast to the narrow conception of religion which characterized the Jewish dispensation, and is one of the most powerful agencies in civilizing and uplifting the peoples of the earth.

Rev. E. C. Bass, D. D., presiding elder, spoke upon "The Duty and the Field"—the duty being immediate, imperative and universal, and the field limited only by the bounds of the world. Whether at home or abroad, there is no duty so poor, no service so simple, no call so mean, as to be beneath the attention of the man or woman really devoted to the cause of missions.

Between the two services luncheon was served for out-of-town visitors by the ladies of the missionary societies.

SCHOOLROOM DECORATION.

To the Editor of the News:

Sir: May I call the attention of the readers of the News to the fact that the first report of the association for decorating the Newport schools is being sent out this week? Since this association was started, in July, 1897, we have collected $1,671.45 and decorated thirty-three rooms.

When the report went to press it was thought the funds in hand would suffice for the work undertaken this summer; but, owing to the fact that the rooms selected for decoration by the school committee are almost all in the lower grades, some of the casts and photographs in hand were found unsuitable, and had to be set aside for future use in the higher-grade rooms. To replace them with subjects appropriate to the younger children (in regard to which we had the benefit of the teachers' advice) we had to spend $65 in excess of our funds, and I venture to hope that some of those who have expressed approval of the work will help to make good this deficiency.

We have enough casts and pictures set aside to decorate two or three rooms in the higher grades, and if $1,200 or $1,300 more could be collected during the winter, all the schools could be decorated next summer.

Thanks are already due to the teachers, pupils, and their friends, who have collected money and organized so many successful entertainments for the benefit of the association, and we hope that others will follow their example and so enable us to complete a work which has met with such general favor.

EDITH WHARTON,
Secretary.
